

A.M. Nanton Talks on Arrangement Made With Lethbridge Miners.

ank, June 6.—A Macleod miner Lillie gave evidence before the Commission this morning. He had an eight hour law, a constitution act, a law to compel operators to keep sufficient timber adjacent to working places and the posting of the inspector's report in a conspicuous place. He claimed that he never seen the mine inspector and the Lillie mine. The Lillie any had not lived up to their ment with the men in failing to afford sufficient timber. Wages are once a month. He advocated a month's pay on the usual day. He said the work at the last winter had been very free. His highest check had been for his bow of $67. The material at the mill was free, and there had not been any fatal accidents during employment there. He thought the law should be changed to the employment of boys in the mill until they are 16 years of age. He reported that the Little did not have a wash-house or sh stretchers in case of acci-

STRATHCONA NEWS

LOCALS

Chief Patterson is out again after two weeks' illness.

D. V. Smith, of South St. Marie, is visiting in the city and may locate here.

A meeting to reorganize the cricket club will be held Saturday night in the office of Austin & Palmer.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fraser left yesterday for Kansas to attend the golden wedding of Mr. Fraser's parents.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Court Strathcona City No. 181 takes place this evening in the Orange Hall.

Judge Tipton leaves for Brandon today to be present at the annual western conference of the Knights of Pythias.

Work is being rushed on the new Board of Trade office, and it is expected to be ready for occupancy by Monday next. A large sign will be placed over the building.

The death took place yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law, Robert Palmer, city road superintendent, of Percy Watson, aged nine years. The little boy some days ago contracted diphtheria, which proved fatal.

A largely attended social was held last night by the Presbyterian Church, Christian Endeavor on the lawn.

Mr. A. Davis. The Strathcona band was in attendance and gave a very enjoyable programme.

The Strathcona Investment Company have sold lot 14 block 5 Railway and Sheppard adjacent to J. R. & T. Railway, of London, England. Lot 15 in the same block has also been sold by the company to D. M. Green of Boston.

Yesterday forenoon, while Arthur Austin, a carpenter, was working at the extension being erected to the fire hall, the scaffolding gave away and fell about fifteen feet to the ground. He was taken to the hospital, but as the fracture of his leg could not gain admission, so was removed to the residence of his brother, Mr. Austin. It was found that while he was badly shaken up, no bones were broken, and he is expected to be around again in a few days.

The fourth game of the Intermediate baseball League will be played this evening between Granville and Burger street schools, on the ground of the latter. These teams have both lost on the city. When they last met Burger street won, but tonight their opponents hope to change the story.

The Strathcona Ladies' Hospital Aid Society are making preparations to run a booth at the Edmonton exhibition in aid of the hospital.

Meeting to make arrangements will be held next Monday evening at the office of J. D. Tipton to make the arrangements.

Take my Poultry-for-Profit Outfit Without Spending a Cent of Cash

Tell me to ship you a PEERLESS Incubator and a Brooder, and you take three years to pay for them in full.

You can start raising poultry for profit without spending a cent for the important part of your outfit.

Simply tell me to ship you a PEERLESS Incubator and a Peerless Brooder—you need them both to start right.

Promise to pay for them in three years' time—that's all I ask you to do.

I will tell you exactly what to do to make a success of poultry raising. I will work with you as your expert advisor, if you want advice.

I will see you through—show you just how to make most money quickest.

I will even find you a good high-paying buyer for all the poultry you want to raise.

And I will put a Ten-Year GUARANTEE behind the incubator and the brooder—an absolute, plain-English guarantee that puts all the risk on me, where it belongs.

I can afford to, because I know for sure you can make money if you go at it right.

And then I will sell you more incubators and more brooders—

Suppose you send for the free book anyway—and send now. That commits you to nothing and costs you nothing.

To save time and freight Western orders will be shipped by express, and to save you the trouble of waiting for the book to be sent to you.

TO GET OUT THE CROPS.

Next to settlers the west needs increased railway facilities—more railways and better service on them. "Bumper crops" are ordinarily of comparatively little value if they cannot be got to market. We had a "bumper crop" last year, but it was estimated that one half of it was still in the hands of the farmers when spring opened, and that for the simple reason that the railways could not haul it out of the country. It was only the circumstance of a shortage of wheat elsewhere and the consequent sharp advance in spring prices that turned an impending disaster into an unexpected benefit to the farmer.

At present English wheat customers; we have well founded hopes of a rapidly developing market in the Orient, and there are many who prophesy that before many years the United States must import Canadian wheat in large quantities. Whether destined for Liverpool, Yokohama or Minneapolis, the wheat can be got by railways and by railways alone. The past winter more than any preceding winter has shown that under severe climatic conditions the existing railways with their existing equipment, cannot handle more than one-half the present crop. What would be the condition with double the crop but only the same railway facilities? And it will not be many years before the crop doubles the total of 1904.

It is perhaps inevitable in the rapid development of a fertile agricultural country that anomalous conditions should arise—either that transportation facilities should develop more rapidly than the business for them to handle, or that the production of the country should multiply faster than transportation facilities can be provided. Western Canada has experienced both conditions. For a decade we had more railways than could provide business for, at the present time we have more business than the increased railway facilities can handle satisfactorily. To harmonize these conditions of development—to keep the railway facilities developing rapidly enough to handle the rapidly increasing business, without prematurely multiplying the lines and thus laying a needless burden on the country—this is one of the great problems of the west which Canada is now trying to solve.

Whatever may be the developments of our commercial future the bulk of our crop now goes to Britain and the opening up of new channels to the Atlantic seaboard is of vital importance. This duty the Dominion government has undertaken with business-like enterprise. We now have two lines of the Canadian Pacific railway to Eastern Canada and the sea. A second National Transcontinental, traversing the Dominion from the Pacific to the Atlantic, is being rushed to completion as rapidly as a single fund and constructive ability can push the enterprise. The Canadian National railway now operates its line from Edmonton to the head of the Great Lakes and is undertaking the most tempting an extension from Fort William eastward through Northern Ontario to connect with its Ontario system and thus provide a third all-the-year-round outlet to the Atlantic. To these enterprises now completed and in course of completion is to be added a fourth—the railway to Hudson Bay—a portion of which has already been constructed and the completion of which is now occupying the attention of the Government, with every prospect of ripening into a definite proposition at a very early date.

On the other hand the condition of the roads now in existence has been taken up by the Railway Commission and the companies, with every promise of greatly increasing their traffic-handling ability before the present season's crop is ready for market. Locomotive works and car shops are now working night and day to fill the orders for new rolling stock for the western lines; track improvement is being carried on everywhere at the expense of delay in construction of branch lines, that more trains may be run and on faster times; and experts from the Railway Department are in the west making exhaustive examination of conditions generally with a view to suggesting how the handling capacity of the present roads may be increased.

These are the means now in hand for supplying the west with adequate shipping facilities, by the construction of new railway "outlets" and the betterment of those existing. In the outworking of this policy lies the hope and assurance that the farmers of the west will have the best of means for getting their crops to market.

OLDS VS. THE C. P. R.
 Something very much like a small sized battle took place in Olds on Monday last and for the time being climaxed the dispute between the people of that town and the C. P. R. Twice previously the C. P. R. have closed up a street crossing in order to lay a switch and twice the obstruction have been rooted out. On Monday the switch was laid under protection of the mounted police, and under circumstances generally that were decidedly strenuous.

It is claimed that the people of Olds have been always ready to refer the matter to the Railway Commission, but the decision of that body absolutely, but that the C. P. R. has simply tried to bully them, right or wrong, without reference to the Commission. The occurrence of Monday substantiates the claim. The railway officials are not reported as having produced any authority from the Commission or any one else for closing the crossing, but have simply brought along a large gang of natives and laid the track under protection of the police. On the other hand, while the Olds people registered their kick in quite unmistakable manner they observed the law when called upon to do so by the police officer, and once the switch had been laid refrained from interfering with it, or damaging the railway property. The case will now doubtless go to the Railway Commission for decision.

Of one thing the people of Olds may be dead sure. If the C. P. R. had had any faith in the legal standing of their case they would have had little hope of establishing their legal right.

WHY?
 The news has leaked out that Chief Evans of the city police force has resigned and that he is to be succeeded by Major Beale, of Brantford, Ont. How is this? Does the city police force contain no man capable of doing his duty, and deserving of promotion? If not, why not? If so, why does he not succeed the retiring chief? The city charter leaves the management of the police force in the hands of the city commissioners, and a degree both of liberty and privacy is their privilege in the selection of a head for the force, when such is necessary. But once the selection is made the city council should know why it has been made, particularly so in the present case where the men on the force are passed over and a man is "imported" to take the position. Policemen, like other salaried persons, expect promotion when a vacancy occurs "higher up," and as with other mortals, the hope of advancement is doubtless an inspiration to faithful service. It is in the public interest that they should have the encouragement of such hope; and if they are to be denied it, both the police and the public should know why.

ON THE SIDE.
 "Sunny Alberta" is redeeming her reputation.

It is comforting to know that Californians endorse the architectural designs of the universe. A paper of that city declares that, "heavily as 'favor the gravity idea.'"

A Toronto child is said to have contracted pneumonia, scarlet fever, measles and croup after having been taken to a hospital. What also her when she went there is not said. She died.

The Duke of Plouffe, aged 26, has been awarded $1,250 damages because Lady Clark, aged 60, proposed to him when he refused sought revenge by writing nasty post cards to him. Lady Clark's age should have known this isn't leopards.

Oratory Of The Colonial Premiers

Oratory and statecraft do not always march together, but in the case of the colonial premiers now in our midst each has the reputation of being in his own individual way, a speaker of more than ordinary ability.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a born orator. His delivery is grave, precise and stately, as might be expected from a man of such courtly and dignified presence, and his sweet, yet sonorous voice never fails to win and hold the rapt attention of his hearers. His English, be it said, is quite without accent; it is only the intonation that sounds at first somewhat strangely to British ears.

Sir Wilfrid speaks at great length, but he has the rare knack of grasping all sides of a question at once, then seizing upon its main principle, and building it up in masterly fashion, an argument, that is at once, clear and convincing. What, perhaps, most impresses the hearer who for the first time listens to one of Sir Wilfrid's polished addresses is the evident sincerity of his purpose.

It is in the Duke of Devonshire, premier of the Australian commonwealth, eloquence reaches a very high level. Indeed, true, it is eloquence of a rough-and-ready kind, such as one might expect from a speaker more of whose experience has been gained in addressing rowdy and hostile meetings. For this very reason, however, Mr. Deakin is one of the most attractive of speakers.

In the case of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, there is a complete absence of artificiality in all his utterances, and a directness that "hits you in the eye," so to speak, which will appeal with peculiar force to his English hearers. "Dr. Jim's" Charm and Both's Fluency.

Dr. Jamieson, the premier of Cape Colony, will never, it is thought, rank as an orator of the highest class. But in his manner of speaking there is considerable charm, and Dr. Jim has large powers of persuasion. At the same time he has a strong vein of sentiment, which he has been known to use with great effect.

To speak effectively in a foreign tongue on complex matters of state is rightly regarded as a great linguistic feat, but General Botha has accomplished it. If his English is marked with a slight Dutch accent, no fault can be found with his fluency, as the speeches he has already delivered can testify. The newly elected premier of the Transvaal has in addition the enviable gift of phrase-making, as he showed in his famous speech on racial unity, when he said that Botha and Britton "kept pinching each other in the dark."

The Fastest Colonial Speaker.
 Sir Joseph Ward, New Zealand's able delegate to the conference, occupies a unique position, inasmuch as he is the only member of whom it can be truly said that he has risen from the ranks. Knowing as we do, therefore, that many of our ablest orators are self-made men, we are in a measure, prepared to learn that Sir Joseph is a fluent and effective speaker.

But Sir Joseph is more than that. An extraordinary rapidity of utterance and telling incisiveness of speech long ago marked him down as the most brilliant parliamentary debator and platform orator in New Zealand. Briskly and vigorously, however, expresses freely the torrential flow of language that pours from Sir Joseph's lips when he is warmed up to a subject in which he is thoroughly well versed. On such occasions his delivery often reaches 200 words a minute, and rarely falls below 200. His speeches are, moreover, usually very lengthy, one, which he delivered in 1897 on the subject of the San Francisco mail service lasting two hours and a half. No greater contrast in oratory could be found than that which exists between the fiery, impassioned words of Sir Joseph Ward and the quietly-spoken sentiments of Mr. F. R. Moor, the capable representative of Natal. For Mr. Moor is essentially a man of peace who lays himself out to convince by sympathy and reason rather than by any display of rhetorical power.—The Reader, London, Eng.

THE ATTRACTIONS OF THE LAC STE. ANNE COUNTRY

And Some Hints to Settlers in That District by J. J. A. Landon.

There are many attractive spots in Alberta, and one of these certainly is the beautiful Lac Ste. Anne. It has an additional source of interest, it being one of the oldest settlements of the lake front country. The location of the western edge of the never to be forgotten missionary, Rev. J. B. Thibault, in 1842, when he founded a mission there.

The lake is seventeen miles in length and about five miles wide and after passing through the narrow straits it is studded with the most beautiful wooded islands. Not being surrounded by any hills of great height, it makes an ideal sheet of water for sailing. By passing through the upper Sturgeon Island Lake is reached by another run of eleven miles can be made.

The Indians frequently come down by the route in canoes and it may surprise some readers to know that ardent canoeists have been known to go as far as St. Albert from the end of Island Lake.

One of the great charms of the lake is its sunny bottom and during the summer months children revel in the delights offered by bathing and wading about its shores.

Wild roses and violets grow in abundance near the lake. In fact Nature has been most generous in allowing her choicest gifts to this attractive spot.

From a sportsman's point of view Lac Ste. Anne offers big game, ducks, geese, hunting, fishing, and black bear shooting, a privilege of the range 50, which is permitted all the year round.

Being the central point for the Yellowhead and mouth of McLeod trails, it is always a busy little spot.

Hints to Land Seekers.

Perhaps a few hints would prove useful to intending settlers in quest of land west of this district, numbers of whom keep pouring in day after day.

My reason for doing so is that in many cases lately, settlers have come out here with heavy teams, wagons and every imaginable kind of miscellaneous paraphernalia, seeking for land, and expecting to find all kinds of good roads in a country that a few years back possessed as many white settlers as could be counted on one hand. The disappointment is so keen that many have sold their stuff and gone back to town.

There is only one way to seek out land that is with a saddle and pack horse, and the land office here can furnish full particulars as to the trails in the direction any settler wishes to go. Then after trail be found, the settler is in a position to see for himself the best of land before him, and how much he will have to cut out himself or he reaches his destination.

By using a saddle and pack horse it is possible to get over a very large area of country in a short time, and if disappointed the expense of bringing back heavy wagons is avoided.

Many are now trying to get as close to the proposed G. T. P. survey line as possible and naturally others who expect to get good land and probable "town site" speculation, not being steady, but liking a lot, come back with physiognomies as long as Langan's. The writer was right through to the McLeod river for over three months last summer with the C. N. E. parties, out again in subdivisions and traversing the Pembina, and later with the G. T. P. I am convinced enough to think I may give an opinion on the land the line runs through.

Being simply a line run at a certain grade, as long as it can find that grade it settles on it right away, curves where land is too high, curves if too low, goes straight through.

where grading and cutting would be less expensive than curvatures. In fact, does not think of Mr. Home-clearer a bit.

Now the result is that many miles of it are in rough, rolling country, along the sides of hills, and as lots of poor survey boys know too well, all kinds of muskeg.

True, there are some nice patches in places, but as far as I saw, there is no patch of land in close proximity to the line, once the Labret Lake is passed, till the Big Eddy is reached to make a good settlement. By far the finest land I passed over is to be found about fifteen or twenty miles northeast of the Peabody River, being partly prairie and settled creeks, as well as fine scenery and likely to be a coming ranching district.

I may state that as yet I do not know of a one-half inch square of land in Canada and I just mention a few facts from a totally unprejudiced and unbiased mind; feel sure that if new settlers coming out west of here, would do as most of the oldtimers heading for the mountains do, come with a pack and saddle horses and outfit here and get put on the right track, many dollars would be saved and less downhearted settlers would be the result.

CRICKET.

Matters in cricket circles are becoming so lively that the prospects for a successful season are good. One of the most promising things is the interest being taken by the junior cricketers. Two of the best of these are the McLeod Avenue School and Westward Ho! are already organized and have their first match on the Exhibition Park tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The members of the Edmonton Club practice on Tuesdays and Thursdays on the Exhibition grounds and a large number are turning up. They are the only city team organized, but there will likely be a bankers' team, as there is lots of material in the bank staffs for a first-class team. Such good players as Messrs. Scott and Campbell of the Northern, Bloomfield and Young of the Dominion, Stinson and McKenney of the Imperial, Chapman of the Commerce, and others, might be induced to join.

Another good team could be got from the members of the different athletic clubs of the city. St. Paul's and All Saints' each have some good players on their rolls.

The Pine Lake cricketers have notified the Edmonton team that they will be here on June 20th. They will stay three days and play the city and Fort Saskatchewan on the Exhibition grounds.

FOOTBALL.

Edmonton seniors play the Strathcona football eleven on the exhibition park at 7:15 o'clock. The Edmonton players will be picked from the following: The request is to turn out early, and be on the field in uniform at 7 o'clock. Stude, Gantsch, Young, Neilson, Glaxville, Stockdale, Humphrey, McDonald, Smyth, McInnes, McLeod, Jones, Christie, Morgan and Woodard.

Baseball Men Close Big Factory. Steenville, Ohio, June 6.—The American Glass Works, employing 1,200 men, was idle today because some of the baseball enthusiasts there stopped to welcome Neumann and his wife, of the Boston Nationals, who arrived yesterday. The absence of these men crippled the works. Today many others were missing, and it was decided to shut down altogether for the day. The day was given over to the base players and their friends.

COMMON SENSE

There are many good Nebraska towns in fertile farming country containing ten thousand population whose best business lot frontage sells from $300 to $500 per foot. Vegreville has tributary to it ten times as much land than any good Nebraska town and land that will produce twice as many bushels of grain per acre in consecutive years than any land in Nebraska; another thing, the Vegreville district has wood and a good deep seam of coal has been found inside of the city limits. What would be the present population and lot values of the Nebraska towns if every dollar spent in the last twenty-five years for high priced coal (7.00 per ton for soft to 12.00 for hard coal) had been kept at home beside bringing in outside money for coal and manufactured things that cheap fuel produces? The 10,000 population town would now be 25,000 or over and the best lot frontage would certainly be over $1000 per foot. Vegreville will beat Brandon because it is the centre of a bigger farming district and HAS COAL. See us about the big low priced lots we have for sale in Vegreville. Wide streets and alleys. We freely advise their purchase and think they are money makers.

THERE ARE TWO LIFE PRISONERS

In Edmonton Penitentiary, Calgary Negro Brought Here Yesterday.

The negro, Thomas Rife, who was sentenced to life imprisonment at Calgary on Tuesday for criminally assaulting a Solicitor General named Katie Maricane, aged a year, was yesterday brought up to Edmonton penitentiary, where he will be imprisoned for the remainder of his life. This is the second life prisoner now within the walls of the penitentiary. The old man difficult, whose sentence was for death for murder at Regina was recently commuted, being the other. Rife is a man of about 35 years of age and appears to take the heavy sentence imposed upon him, with indifference. He has expressed considerable fear that his sentence would be imposed and was considerably relieved when he was told by Judge Stuart that the maximum penalty would not be inflicted.

The trial at Calgary occupied the entire day Tuesday. No lawyer would take the negro's case, so he was unrepresented all through the trial. When the evidence was concluded, the judge asked Rife if he had any thing to say, the prisoner jumped to his feet and exclaimed that in the beginning of the case he had asked to have a non-jury trial, but the judge pointed out that it was a jury case as the offence was a capital one. The crown prosecutor in summing up pointed out to the jury that it was not a crime of a sudden passion, but it had been cunningly planned out.

He closed by stating that there were three offences against the prisoner, rape, carnal knowledge and an unnatural crime and asked for a finding on the charge of rape.

The prisoner had nothing to say to the jury and Judge Stuart then summed up the case. He referred to the fact that for twenty years Canada was not a country where lynching was a pastime and was proud to observe that the law had taken its due course in this case. He asked the jury not to let their outraged feelings at the nature of the crime prejudice them, in their finding and if they had any doubt in their minds that the prisoner was not a man who had committed the crime, they should return their verdict accordingly.

The jury retired and after being out seven minutes brought in the verdict of guilty. Rife appeared to be very frightened.

When asked if there was any reason why the sentence should not be passed he had nothing to say.

Judge Stuart then ordered the prisoner to stand up and said: "Regarding the sentence which I am about to impose upon you, I might make it death as I realize that you are not fit to live, being a blot on any community."

"It certainly is not safe for you to be allowed abroad and perhaps by spending the rest of your life in prison your passion will die and if ever you are allowed your liberty, you will no longer be a danger to the community at large."

"I will not impose the maximum penalty, but I now sentence you to life in the rest of your natural life to confinement in the Edmonton penitentiary."

The prisoner showed signs of great relief at escaping the death sentence and the lack. When he was being taken out of court he wore a broad grin, evidently highly pleased with the result.

KNOX WILL ACCEPT.

Nomination for President by Republican Party.

New York, June 6.—United States Senator Chandler C. Knox, of Pennsylvania, today announced his willingness to become a candidate for the presidency in 1928 should the Republican party see fit to nominate him. Senator Knox's position was made known in expressing his appreciation of the action taken by the Republican state convention at Harrisburg, Pa., which endorsed him as a candidate for that office.

Roosevelt Had Nothing to Say.

Washington, D.C., June 6.—The announcement of Senator Knox's New York thought that he would be willing to become a presidential candidate in 1928 if the party nomination had centred much interest. Mr. Knox's announcement was communicated to the president, who read what the senator had to say but made no comment.

Senator Foraker said: "I am not surprised, and am glad to hear it. Senator Knox is a very able and worthy man."

Secretary Hull, when informed of the statement of Mr. Knox, had nothing to say.

Steamer Abies.—A report from Point Judith states that the steamer Conestoga, of New York, which was en route to New York to Port Jervis, caught fire today, causing a delay of five hours. There are 25 passengers on board, but no excitement is reported.

NELSON AND BRITT TO MEET.

Against Fake Medicines.

Rochester, N.Y., June 6.—Mrs. Frank E. Shuster, Port Jervis, was today elected president of Federation of Women's Literary and Educational organizations of western New York. A resolution was passed to the effect that the organization would itself be a campaign against newspapers publishing fake medicine advertisements.

A SPLENDID CONTINGENT

Of Immigrants Arrived Last Night. Halls Are Continuously Crowded.

Last night the C. N. R. train was crowded with settlers for the Edmonton district. The immigration officials say there was never a better class of immigrants than those that came in. They included parties from England, Scotland, Ireland and France. The crowd arrived around the different hotels and the immigration halls were filled with a great number had to be content with chairs for sleeping accommodations.

There are now 125 beds and continuously in use at the two halls and more would be needed if there were more. Many of the newcomers are young married folks who will make their homes in Sunny Alberta. Very few complaints are made as to existing conditions and if the immigrants cannot find lodgings they take up in a tent until they get located.

There are now over 100 families, all newcomers, living in tents north and west of the new immigration hall near the C. N. R. depot.

Among those registering at the old office yesterday were found the following: H. Critchley, Uttoxeter, Staffordshire, Eng.; Colin Forbes, Dundee, Glasgow; John Penner, Jedburgh, Roxburghshire, Scotland; C. Aulray, E. Aulray and child, Jersey Channel; Patrick McGrath, Herbert Robinson and family, Belfast, Ireland; Walter Anschuetz, Martin Milkenko, Collins, Montana; A. L. Kuffer, Parsons, Kansas; and E. Lane, Worfield, England. They are all homeseekers and will go out to the surrounding districts as soon as their effects come in.

REGINA BUILDING RECORD.

Leader: Up to the closing of office hours last evening, 129 building permits had been issued for the erection of 147, representing buildings of a total value of $286,455.

The large total includes buildings of every description—warehouses, business blocks, public buildings and a large number of residences. Of the last named, the majority are substantial dwellings, ranging in value from $2,000 and $3,000 to $5,000 and upward.

The following are some of the principal buildings included in this month's total:

Nicholas-Sheridan warehouse, $17,000
warehouse, 25,000
Stocks & Merchants' fruit warehouse, 32,000
Thos. Wilkinson, warehouse, 8,000
Y. M. C. A., 24,000

Moyer-Haywood

It now develops that, if Harry Orchard's confession be true, he was the man who caused the explosion, and that it was aimed at the life of Bradley, though Bradley himself is distinguished to believe that any one had designs on his life. Orchard said that for weeks he had been in Bradley residence, and had noted that Bradley left at almost the same time every morning, so well was the setting of the bomb timed that it went off a block away at the time of the explosion.

As a result of Orchard's confession, a month after McFarlane's arrival in Boise, Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were arrested in Denver. J. L. Simpson, jointly indicted with them, is still at large. Large rewards have been offered for his apprehension.

This excuse for the officers of the state of Idaho taking charge of the prosecution is, according to Governor Gooding's message to the legislature, that Canyon county could not stand the expense involved, and that evidence is not wanting to show that Mr. Stuenkel's death was in revenge . . . for his faithfulness to his trust as governor. Governor Gooding characterized Orchard's confession as "almost unbelievable."

Moyer was arrested in a Burlington "slammer" that lay in the Union depot at Denver, about 8:45 in the evening. He was about to leave for the Black Hills in South Dakota, his former home, and, it is said, was armed.

Haywood was arrested about 1:30 p.m. and Pettibone about 11:30. They were incarcerated for the night in the county jail at Denver. It is known that the others had been taken to the train the following (Sunday) morning. The friends of the defendant say that Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were taken from the jail about three o'clock in the morning and placed in rooms at a hotel.

It is thought, so as to avoid the service of any writ of habeas corpus on the sheriff of Denver county. Such a writ might have been served on Sunday, or on any other day, or at any time. The train for the defendant's to Idaho was in charge of Agent National Guard, W. J. of the Colorado National Guard (number of the Mine Owners' Association of Colorado), Col. W. Strickland of General Wells' staff, R. B. Malone, J. C. Watson, and J. B. Fidler of the Prater agency, and Deputy Marshal James C. Miller, Jr., of the Idaho penitentiary, the agent of the state of Idaho, appointed to receive the defendants from the Colorado authorities. The train did not stop except for the purpose of taking up mail, and was easily provisioned before leaving Denver.

This was the so-called "kidnapping" of Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone.
